NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

April 14 was a day of mourning for the Society as we shared with the world its grief over the death of our great President. We, too, sorrowed for personal losses to some of our members. Mr. Robinson's words in memory of President Roosevelt are recorded here as our testimonial, our tribute to be preserved with the thousands of others already said and to those which will be added in the years to come.

"The world has lost a leader and culture has lost a friend in the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, thirty-first President of the United States. I am neither fitted nor prepared to present a full record of this man's life, past achievements and future aspirations. Though much was accomplished by the time of his death, he left to the world a heritage of ideals which it behooves us and those who march with us in the crusade for a better world to carry out. I like to think of Mr. Roosevelt in the words which Walter Pater applied to the fifteenth century scholar, Pico della Mirandola, when he called him the true humanist. "For the essence of humanism is that belief of which he seems never to have doubted, that nothing which has ever interested living men and women can wholly lose its vitality; no language they have spoken, nor oracle beside which they have hushed their voices, no dream which has once been entertained by actual human minds, nothing about which they have ever been passionate, or expended time and zeal."

To the little man in the street, to the artist and writer, to the man of wealth and power, to all classes - Mr. Roosevelt offered leadership. His inspiration must not be allowed to die, but like the immortal soul, survive when the body perishes.

In meeting today we do honor to a man who knew the value of history and genealogy, of the documentary worth of picture, heirloom and written record. At Hyde Park he assembled his own personal archives and established a repository for books and documents on the local history of Dutchess County. He was a collector, especially in the field of philately and marine history. He wrote, edited and sponsored publications in the field of history, genealogy, literature and the arts. He saw the Library of Congress take on new life. He opened the National Gallery of Arts. He saw published the first adequate series of uniform guidebooks to all the States, covering their history, cultural contributions and scenic wonders. He gave public support to the arts. I could find many more instances of the accomplishments of his time.

He raised the torch of public enlightenment, let us not let it fall."

In the death on April 1 of Dr. Basil Leroy Connolly the Society lost a Charter Member and an ardent genealogist. A prominent physician in Detroit, his busy life of public service rarely permitted him to be with us in the meetings, but he remained a faithful member from first to last. Dr. Connolly was born July 26, 1893 in Maples, Indiana, the son of Francis Michael and Rose Belle (Levell) Connolly of Lendonville, Ohio. He was a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pennsylvania, and of Western Reserve Medical School, Cleveland, Ohio. He interned at Harper Hospital in Detroit; was gynecological resident at Receiving Hospital; and a staff member at St. Mary's, East Side General, Florence Crittendon, Women's, Grace, and Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospitals. During World War I he served with the Medical Reserve Corps, doing special research in gas and flame at the American University, Washington, D. C. Dr. Connolly's death was sudden; he was only fifty-one. He was twice married; first, August 18, 1925, to Isabel Frances Grace of Washington, Pennsylvania, born February 2, 1891, Oakdale, Pennsylvania, the daughter of Henry Homer and Olive Virginia Rea (Wellington) Grace. Mrs. Connolly, also a Charter member of the Society, died March 13, 1937 in Detroit; the first death to occur in our membership. Dr. Connolly married, as his second wife, Mrs. Fandira (Ludington) McFadden, widow of John McFadden, of Detroit, and daughter of Lewis and Fandira (Hemenger) Ludington. There were no children of either marriage. Mrs. Connolly, who is also a member of the Society, and her daughters have our sincerest sympathy.

The guest speaker at the April meeting was Mrs. Sallie Mason Partlan of Grosse Ile, Michigan. Her talk, all too brief, was on the subject: "SOME MICHIGAN DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE MASON, AUTHOR OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS". Mrs. Partlan, herself one of those descendants, had many interesting photographs and documents to illustrate her talk.

On March 1, 1945, Francis Waring Robinson became a great-uncle when a daughter, Ann Carter Robinson, was born in New York City to his nephew, Lieutenant Howard Hopland Robinson, Jr., now overseas in the Army Air Force, and Mrs. Robinson, the former Alice Morton Ely of Waterbury, Connecticut. Lieut. Robinson is the son of Mr. Howard Copland Robinson of Salisbury, Connecticut, and the late Mrs. Robinson, who was Gladys Burnham Carter, and the grandson of Dr. James Johnson and Anna (Waring) Robinson of Lakeville, Connecticut.

To Mr. and Mrs. Marquis E. Shattuck and their daughters has gone the heartfelt sympathy of the Society for the loss of their only son and brother. Private Truman Allen Shattuck of the Fifth Marine Division, young, for he was only 19, and tall like a tree, died on the field of battle at Iwo Jima on March 2. He was born in Detroit, January 29, 1926; was educated in the Detroit schools; and was a member of the Central Methodist Church. Only a few days before his death, he had written his parents of his decision, on returning, to enter the ministry. A life of service to mankind has been summed up in one great moment of sacrifice.

On Sunday, April 29, a long life ended with the death at Jacksonville, Florida, of the 86 year old mother of Mrs. Clara Hageman Sipperley. She was buried in Tampa, Florida, beside another daughter. Mrs. Hageman was born Emma Louise Ackerman in St. Louis, Missouri, February 25, 1859, daughter of Karl and Magdalena (Holtcher) Ackerman. On March 15, 1880, in Porter, Indiana, she was married to John Hageman, son of Henry Hageman and Hannah Gossett. "She was glad to slip away."

The world of genealogy and of music suffered a loss in the recent death of Dr. William Howland in Birmingham, Michigan, on May 1. Dr. Howland was born in Worcester, Massachusetts, May 1, 1871, dying on his 74th birthday. His body was taken back to his birthplace for burial. Dr. Howland was the son of Ada Allen and Emma (Lane) Howland, a lineal descendant of the Pilgrim John Howland. He was educated in music in New York and in Europe; was at one time head of the voice department of the music school of the University of Michigan; and was a founder of the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts. He was a Charter member of this Society, but because of ill-health he had not been an active member for some years. He was President of The Pilgrim John Howland Society and Deputy-Governor of the National Society of Mayflower Descendants. On June 24, 1896 he married Fredrika Shaw Barnard, who, with a daughter and two sons, survives him.

The meeting on May 12 was a most interesting "EXHIBITION AND DISCUSSION OF FAMILY RECORDS AND GENEALOGICAL CHARTS". Mrs. Ellean H. Stokes had arranged an attractive exhibit from the files of the Burton Historical Collection of the Detroit Public Library. Mr. Robinson gave an interesting background talk. Many members brought a variety of family records of their own and contributed some very entertaining stories in connection with them.

Also at the May meeting the annual election of officers for the year 1945-1946 was held. The nominating committee was composed of Mr. McFee, Chairman, Mrs. Wentink, Mrs. DeBoos, Miss Hathaway and Mr. Blount. The candidates presented by them were unanimously elected as follows: President, Mr. Elijah Hunter Owen; Vice-President, Mr. William C. Hudson; Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. Cecil Moffatt; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Reginald P. Peterson; Treasurer, Mrs. Stephen M. Cotto; Editor, Miss Maude C. Hathaway. All but the President are re-elections.

IV. REBECCA CRIST VINKLE - b. Aug. 26, 1818, d. Feb. 2, 1898; m. 1839, HENRY VINKLE, b. Mar. 9, 1811 in Germany, d. Oct. 9, 1879. He came to America at the age of eighteen, remained in Pennsylvania a while, then located in Dexter, Washtenaw County, Michigan Territory in 1832. He first engaged in the cabinet making and undertaking business on a small scale, and built up a large and well established trade. In 1840 he built the large colonial house now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinbach. Henry Vinkle and Rebecca Crist were married in New Cumberland, Pa. Both are buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Dexter, Michigan.

SOME GOSSETT FAMILY NOTES AND RECORDS

Contributed by Mrs. Clara Hageman Sipperley of Detroit, Michigan.

About three miles from the village of McCool in Porter County, Indiana, there is a small old settlement known as Gossett's Mills. Here, near the banks of a little stream called Salt Creek, in Liberty Township, is an old cemetery, intended as a final resting-place for members of the Gossett family, though other people of the little settlement were evidently given the privilege of burial there. For many years little attention was given to the place and gradually traces of some of the graves were lost. About thirty years ago some one conceived the idea of reunions of the Gossett and Hageman families to be held in this beautiful little cemetery. I suspect it was Aunt Hannah Hageman's idea. She was Mrs. John Busse, my father's youngest sister, who died three years ago at the age of seventy-five years.

I am told that when the family first began to meet there the cemetery was some what larger and traces of some of the graves were plainly visible. So far as possible graves were marked and markers placed on them. The grave of our Revolutionary ancestor, Henry Batton, was definitely known, as were also those of my pioneer great-grandparents, William Gossett and his wife, Charity Hageman, and Jan Hageman and his wife, Hannah Batton. When the William Henry Harrison Chapter of the D. A.R. of Valparaiso, Indiana, placed a marker on the grave of Henry Batton, a marble shaft was placed there also. It is inscribed on three sides as recorded below.

Henry Batton was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania in 1750 and enlisted in the Continental Army in 1775. After the War he settled at Morgantown, West Virginia where he took up a government claim of 400 acres of land granted to Revolutionary soldiers. In 1805 he conveyed this land to his daughter, Eleanor. His wife, Elizabeth, whose maiden name I have never found, was dead by this time of cancer of the face. Another daughter, Hannah, married on March 22, 1798, a young Dutchman, Jan Hageman (or Hogoman), who had come to Uniontown, Pennsylvania, about twenty miles away, from his home in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. He was born October 9, 1769 and died in October, 1843; his wife, Hannah Batton, died three weeks later. They are both buried in the little cemetery at Gossett's Mills.

Henry Batton evidently did not come to Porter County, Indiana, when the Gossetts did, because in 1839 he was drawing his Revolutionary pension in Fountain County, Indiana, where the family had stopped for a few years. He served under Capt. Howds and Col. Gaddis with the rank of sergeant. As he made no claim for a pension until 1832, fifty-four years after his service, he could not prove his claim of rank, so was pensioned as a private. I have a copy of his army service as issued by the war department.

There follow all the names I could find in the Gossett's Mills Cemetery.

William Gossett (Brother of Grandmother Hannah Gossett Hageman)

Chancy Gossett, his son.

Nancy Gossett, his daughter.

Jacob Beck, died Jan. 14, 1849 (husband of Jane Hageman).

Jane Beck died Nov. 10, 1871 (Jane Hageman, sister of grandfather Henry Hageman).

H. A. Beebe died Jan. 29, 186- age 26 years 1 month.

Chancy Beebe, child of L. D. and H. A.

Harriet Beebe, wife of L. D. Beebe, died Feb. 12, 1851 age 41 years, 9 months.

Born 1810. (So far as I know, the Beebe's were no relation.)

Louisa Griffith, daughter of John Gossett (brother of grandmother Hannah Hageman.

Ira Hageman born 1861 (son of Henry Hageman and my father's brother.)

Minnie Hageman died Dec. 13, 1855 (daughter of Henry Hageman.)

Eleanor Hageman died 1858 (daughter of Henry Hageman.)

Alfred Hageman died Sept. 23, 1852 (4th son of Henry Hageman.)

Johnathan Hageman died Oct. 23, 1851 (1st son of Henry Hageman.)

Infant son of John Gossett. Name on stone is given as "Baby" and the stone is a figure of a little lamb on top of a slab. The date is May 13, 1871. The stone is in excellent condition.

John Gossott (grandmother's brother, son of William and Charity Hageman Gossott).

Jane Gossott (Jane Spencer, wife of John Gossott.)

Henry Batton, born Chester Co., Penna, 1750, died Feb. 1, 1845, age 95 years.

Jan (John) Hageman died 1843 (grandfather's father.)

Hannah Batton Hageman died 1843 (wife of Jan Hageman.)

David Skidmore died August 1, 1858.

Orinda Gossott Skidmore, his wife, age 28 (cannot tell who is 28 or date of death.)

Susannah Skidmore, wife of David, died Dec. 2, 185 - age (15?) years.

Charles W. son of ----- Skidmore.

Albert Gossott (son of William or son of John?)

Jacob Skidmore died Aug. 22, 1843.

Frank ---- (could not make it out.)

John G. Hearring died Jan. 29, 1842 age 42 years and 21 days. (not a relative.)

Elizabeth - no other name.

There are probably three or four stones either not marked or illegible.

Notes:-Elizabeth Hageman married a Skidmore (Wm.?), March 28, 1822. Would David and Charles above be her sons? She had a son William.

Notes:- The tall monument is inscribed on three sides as follows:

1st side - Wm. Gossott died Feb. 16, 1845, age 55 years. Charity, his wife, died Oct. 4, 1885, age 86 years 9 months. Nancy, his mother, died 1837 age 77 years.

2nd side - Henry Batton died 1845 age 95 years. John Hageman died 1843, age 74 years. Hannah Batton his wife died 1843 age 66 years. (three weeks after he died)

3rd side - Nancy died 1839, age 22 years. Chancy died 1853 age 14 years.

The fourth side is blank. All these are buried close together.

I have no proof of relationship between the Gossetts buried in this Indiana cemetery in Porter County, where many of their descendants are still living, and the Gossetts in Illinois and Texas mentioned in the notes following. There are a number of things in common that seem to indicate a relationship. So I submit these notes in the hope that they may furnish a clue to some other researcher along the same line or bring an answer to some of my questions. Who was the immigrant ancestor? Where did he settle in America? There are many Gossetts in North Carolina. Was that the original home of the family?

Family tradition says that great-grandfather, William Gossott, came from east of the Ohio-Indiana line, with his mother Nancy and two brothers, Thomas and Joseph. His mother is buried in the above cemetery. His brother, Joseph, seems to have settled near Kouts, Indiana, about twenty-four miles south of Valparaiso. Thomas lived in Porter County for some years; then he went away and the family lost track of him. I have never found out where William Gossott married my great-grandmother, Jane Hageman; but her family lived in Union County, Indiana, where she grew up. She was the daughter of Jan Hageman and Hannah Batton. Both William Gossott and his father-in-law were mill-wrights. In "Sons of the Wilderness" by John and William Connor, a Thomas Gossott is mentioned, a farmer, who lived one mile south of Honey Creek about 1807. In that year John Hageman had a mill at Bennet's Bottom in the same general locality, the Whitewater Valley. Grandmother Hannah Gossott Hageman was born at Honey Creek on the Whitewater, Feb. 7, 1820, and grandfather Henry Hageman was born in Union County, Indiana, November 21, 1816.

William Gossott took up land in Porter County, Indiana, in 1833, and moved his family there the following year. The mill which he built that same year was torn down only a few years ago and the dam destroyed. It must have been a very important business for many a day, as it was a large mill and the land which the mill-pond occupied was considerable as can be seen today. William Gossott was a man of considerable ability and quite a force in the community in the few years he lived there. At the time the mill was built a little community was formed which called itself "Athens", but which soon became "Gossott's Mills". The tradition that the family came from east of the Ohio-Indiana line, possibly from the south, is supported by the kind of house William Gossott built at Gossott's Mills. It had a gallery supported by columns, an unusual feature for a house of that time in that locality. Great-grandfather was thrown from his horse and died five days later, Feb. 16, 1843.

Miss Tholma Gossott of Detroit says that her family was originally from Tennessee. Her great-grandfather, Abraham Gossott, migrated to Illinois, settling on a farm where the city of Cairo now is. He sold out and returned to Tennessee, but was never paid for his land. Later he returned to Illinois and settled in White County near Norris City where he died. There is a Gossott's Mills there too, for he was also a mill-wright. It seems that mill-wrights were given a grant of land, something like 200 acres, as an inducement to build a mill. Notice the similarity between this account and that above and with that of Elijah Gossott which follows.

The following records and notes were copied from correspondence I have had with Mrs. Josie Gossott Newton of Galveston, Texas, since 1942.

Elijah Gossott, my paternal grandfather (quoting from Mrs. Newton's letters), was born on Rutherford Creek in Tennessee, Feb. 1, 1788. I do not know the given names of his parents or the name of the county of his birth. He married Elizabeth Stone-Edwards who was born Sept. 1, 1789. Her mother was a Miss Lockridge. They reared a family of ten children; moved from Tennessee to Illinois, date unknown. Not liking Illinois, they returned to Tennessee, date unknown. The city of Cairo, Illinois is located on the farm Elijah Gossott owned there, for which he never received any pay. In 1833 he moved to Texas, accompanied by the entire family. They, of course, made this hazardous journey through the wilderness with a large company, because of Indians and wild beasts. They were more than three months on route. They were camped at Grand Prairie, Arkansas, when the stars fell. I do not know what became of the others of the party, or even any of their names.

But the Gossotts settled in what is now Houston and Anderson counties. Then they were a part of Nacogdoches County. Elijah selected a site on Hurricane Bayou, five miles northwest of the present town of Crockett and resided there until 1837, when his second son, Andrew Edwards (my father), built a new home for himself, nearly two miles from Crockett; but moved his parents into the new house, because they were victims of malaria in the Bayou. Elijah and his wife continued to live there until their deaths in 1848 and 1849, respectively.

Elijah Gossott owned land in Van Zandt County and while on a business trip there in 1848, he died on Nov. 24. His body was embalmed and carried back to Houston County in an ox wagon. His wife died July 6, 1849 and both were buried in the first old cemetery in Crockett, in a brick-enclosed vault. In 1937 the Texas Centennial Commission placed a beautiful marker at their graves. This was in honor of his services in the Texas Revolution in 1836, when he and his three eldest sons served during its entire duration. These sons, James Lockridge, Andrew Edwards and John Van Dyke, and their father, served as Volunteers under Capt. Wm. Spurlock, with Brig-Gen. Thomas J. Rusk, commanding. After Texas became a Republic, they all joined Capt. Elisha Clapp's company of Texas Rangers and served on the frontier. (These facts were furnished me by Miss Harriet Smither, Archivist of the Texas State Library of Austin, who also gave me copies of their discharge papers. All received Bounty Warrants for 350 acres of land for their military services.)

Elijah Gossott, my grandfather, was elected Chief Justice (County Judge) in 1841 of Houston County, and was one of the trustees of Trinity College, which was first established in Houston County by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Republic of Texas in Congress assembled, Jan. 30, 1841.

Houston County was created from a part of Nacogdoches County, June 1, 1837, and Crockett was incorporated Dec. 29 of the same year. My father donated the site for the town, so he and his father were given the privilege of naming both town and county. Since both had served under Gen. Sam Houston in the so-recent Revolution, they suggested the name of "Houston" for the county; and as David Crockett was a boyhood friend, the little town was named for him. Crockett had been a neighbor in Tennessee and had recently passed through the little settlement on his ill-fated journey to the Alamo, where he met his tragic death. He spent the night with his old friend, Elijah Gossett.

When the Gossetts came to Texas it was so undeveloped that the early settlers were unable to obtain even the common comforts of life. In what is now Houston County, at the time my forebears came, there were but eight families, all miles apart. My father's nearest white neighbor was his father who lived eight miles away. My father built his first little log cabin on a hill north of the present town, because of the convenience of a spring at the foot of a very steep hill. If he needed groceries, he would mount his pony and ride over a rough bridle path to Nacogdoches sixty-five miles away, the nearest trading post. The new home in which his parents lived was said to be the first weather-boarded house in the Republic of Texas and it still stands in a splendid state of preservation and is lived in as a home. My oldest brother, Galveston, was the first white male child born in the Republic of Texas, Jan. 30, 1837.

Texas was a Mexican possession when the Gossetts moved there and they were each granted a league of land by the Mexican government. My father's grant was, and still is, known as the "Gossett League". My grandfather, Elijah, was Houston County's County Judge also, and held the office a long time. He not only served in the Texas Revolution, but also as a Texas Ranger on the frontier after Texas gained her independence. He gave four sons to the Confederate Army, one of whom made the supreme sacrifice. He was a member of the Texas Veterans Association and I always accompanied him and my mother to the annual conventions. I still thrill at the memory of their experiences as related by them. And many were the honored guests in our home. I will remember "big-foot" Wallace, Gen. Walter Lane, Col. McNeely, Col. Blount and others.

Andrew Edwards Gossett, father of Josie Gossett Newton of Galveston, Texas, was the second son of Elijah and Elizabeth (Stone-Edwards) Gossett. He was born in Maury County, Tennessee, July 19, 1812. He was married twice. His first wife was Rhoda E. Mulder, daughter of Kedor and Rhoda Mulder, born January 14, 1812 in Halifax County, North Carolina. They were married December 27, 1831 and became the parents of nine children. She died at Crockett, Texas, April 14, 1853.

Children of Andrew Edwards Gossett and Rhoda E. Mulder (Gossett):

A TOMKINS FAMILY BIBLE RECORD

Contributed by Mrs. Reginald P. Paterson of Detroit.

Note:- The following record was copied from a Bible seen at the Goodwill Industries. The Bible was published by Silas Andrus and Son, New York. Stereotyped by James Connor, New York. On the fly-leaf is written - "Mary Ulllyet, Woodsville, Livingston, County, New York." A written account pasted inside the cover tells of the passing away of one Thomas Tomkins at his residence in Mt. Vernon (where?). It says in part "He travelled to the West Coast by way of Cape Horn in 1846, and engaged in hauling provisions for General Sutton. At the time of discovery of gold he made three trips across the plains, bringing back with him large parties of immigrants who were coming to make homes and fortunes in the new El Dorado."

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS TO GENEALOGICAL WORKS

On page 99 of "THE DETROIT SOCIETY FOR GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH MAGAZINE", March-April, 1945 issue, there is a "Going Family Bible Record" containing several Dewey names. A note to Mrs. Henry F. Going of Pontiac, Michigan, who had contributed the record, received the reply that, as she did not know about these Deweys, she had sent the editor's note to Mrs. J. A. (Minnie Eugenia Dewey) Parkinson of Kansas City, Missouri, who would know. Mrs. Parkinson kindly sent the following record. We are thus able to make this addition to "THE DEWEY GENEALOGY", 1898 - page 293, #122, Miles Sheldon (6) Dewey (Gideon 5, Moses 4, Abijah 3, Thomas 2, Thomas 1). Notice that some of the dates as given in the three records do not agree. Mrs. Parkinson's record follows, the numbers being those used in the Dewey Genealogy:

Eighth Generation

669. Ralph - Mrs. Parkinsons says that she is unable to supply exact data. She is sure that he died in Detroit before her father's death, Oct. 26, 1923; that he was twice married, first to Jessie Dean Dodsworth of Detroit, by whom he had one daughter, second to Jessie Duncan of Pontiac, whose death preceded his by a year or two. There were no children. Ralph Dewey was associated for some years with the firm of Wright, Kay and Co., jewelers in Detroit, but at the time of his death he was in the Jewelry business for himself at 7 Adams Ave. East, Detroit.
 670. Charles O., b. Dec. 6, 1869 - d. in infancy.

Q U E R I E S

996: M-45: JOHNSON-GIBBS:- Data wanted on the first immigrant and descendants from him to William Johnson, born 3/16/1783, Milton, Saratoga County, New York; died 11/13/1876, Fanner, Madison County, New York; married Achsa (Dana) Gibbs as her second husband. This family of Johnsons is known to have settled in Michigan.

997: M-45: VAN ETTEN-PITCHER:- Data wanted on ancestry of Jacob Van Etten who served in 2nd New York Regt., Col. Goosio Van Schaick in Revolution, and wife Margaret. His son Peter married Polly Pitcher and lived in the region of Sedus, New York.

998: H-33: ARMSTRONG or ADAMS:- One of our forefathers was killed in the Battle of Lake Erie, War of 1812, on Admiral Perry's ship, as he stood beside him. He it was, so the family legend ran, who had been captain of a whaler and one day, as his men hauled a mammoth whale from the water, a spritely young Spanish girl, with a sense of the dramatic, ran to the water's edge, sprang into the whale's mouth and proceeded to dance, the whale of course being quite dead. The young sea captain fell instantly in love with her, lifted her out and embraced her, vowing to make her his wife. She later became our great, great grandmother.

This episode has been in some of our family histories, but thus far I have been unable to locate it. The family accepts this story as a fact, since it was related to us by my own great grandmother, whose maiden name was Armstrong or Adams, one of which must have been the sea captain's name. Has anyone else ever heard this story or seen it in print? I shall welcome any such information.

999: R-14: COLE-CORNELL:- Wanted ancestry of Alexander Cole, born 1822 in New York State (where?); married Oct. 29, 1842 in Unadilla, Livingston Co., N. Y., to Lydia Cornell, dau. of Stephen Cornell, an early settler in that county from Dutchess Co. This family of Coles is known to have located in Michigan.

1000: H-12: BROWN-TIBBITS:- Want ancestry of Harriet Elizabeth Brown, b. Sept. 28, 1828 (where?); m. Talmage Enos Tibbits, b. Aug. 9, 1820 in Ballston, N. Y., d. near Clyde, N. Y., Mar. 10, 1869. They were m. Jan. 13, 1845.
